The image shows a dimly lit interior space, likely a living room or a large bedroom, with a large window on the left wall. The window has a black frame and is divided into two panes. Through the window, a view of a city with red-roofed buildings and green hills in the background is visible under a cloudy sky. The floor is covered with dark grey wood-look planks. On the right side, there is a doorway leading to another room. A green and white watermark is overlaid on the right side of the image.
